COLD WEATHER PROTECTION — Letter carriers are dedicated people when it comes to delivering mail on their assigned postal routes regardless of the kind of weather it may be. Freezing weather of winter finds Blanche Moore, a letter carrier for the Belleville Post Office, wearing a specially designed knit stocking over her face as she makes her daily postal rounds. The leather boots and postal cart are also big aids in keeping warm while delivering mail, she reports.

Schedule mixup poses threat to Dimes dance

The fate of the traditional March of Dimes Dance was in doubt for a short time this month because the Old Progressive Hall had mistakenly scheduled two events for the same night.

But Tony Muto, manager of the New Hilton Inn of Romulus came to the rescue and the event will be held, as scheduled, on the evening of Jan. 30.

The March of Dimes Dance is a Jaycee-sponsored event with 25 years of tradition behind it. Plans for this year's dance were made a year ago, when an orchestra and hall were arranged for.

Tickets had already been on sale for a month when representatives of the Old Progressive Hall notified the Jaycees that a mistake had been made and a wedding reception was previously scheduled for the same night. Several phone calls were made and a new location was found so that the tradition of a March of Dimes Dance on the last Saturday of January could continue unbroken.

For tickets to the Dance, contact any Jaycee or phone 941-9200.

Missionary leaves for Nepal post

Rebecca Monette, 22-year-old missionary, leaves today for a five-year sojourn in Nepal as a linguistic technician.

Rebecca, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Monette of 4280 Eastlawn, Wayne, was commissioned as a missionary in November 1970 by Pastor Frank Van Valin and the church Missions Committee of the Dearborn Free Methodist Church. She will work for Wycliffe Bible Translators, Inc., headquartered in Santa Anna, Calif., to translate the some 34 Nepalese languages into writing.

Translators spend time with the people studying their culture, analyzing the language via tape recordings and making notes of their own.

After intensive study, they can develop a written representation of the language and write primers for the study of it.

Wycliffe Bible Translators have started to employ computers to reduce the approximate 15 years for an undertaking of this type to about five years.

The Nepalese government has granted permission for the Wycliffe people to enter the country to translate the Scriptures into the language, but will not allow them to do any active missionary work.

In Nepal, Wycliffe headquarters will be in Kartmandu, however, the translators will go out to live among the people of the various tribes. Nepal is a tiny country in the Himalayan mountains.

Miss Monette is a graduate of Taylor University with a degree in Biblical literature.

During her summer vacations and since graduating, she has taken additional training in translation technique from Wycliffe Translators.

Last year, Miss Monette completed a six month intensive jungle training course in Mexico where candidates for Wycliffe translators received survival tactic training for living in primitive jungle conditions.

She also spent two summers at the University of Oklahoma studying linguistic technology, including ethnomusicology, the study of a culture's music.

The oldest of four children, Rebecca was raised in a family devoted to God. She lived for some years in the parsonage of an Evangelical United Brethren Church where her father ministered.

Moving to Wayne from South Dakota three years ago, Rev. Monette works with the handicapped and Mrs. Monette is a counselor in the Romulus School system.

Members of the Dearborn Free Methodist Church assisted Rebecca in gathering a five-year store of supplies which were shipped to Nepal in October.

Once her plane carries her to Nepal, Rebecca does not plan to return to the States until 1976, she said, when hopefully her mission is accomplished.

Code enforcement to be stepped up

By HENRY CANTIN

The City of Romulus is initiating a new and emphasized community-wide campaign for strict compliance to city codes and ordinances.

Orders for this stepped up enforcement of various city regulations and ordinances were issued by Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael following last week's city council session.

A list of code and ordinance violations is being prepared. Members of City Council and other city officials have been requested by the mayor to post with the city's administrative staff any violations that they see and reports they may receive for possible prosecution.

Owners of property — both residential and business — found in violation of city codes will be first issued warning tickets and ordered to correct the violation within a reasonable time.

Upon their failure to do so, Romulus Building Department inspectors, deputized to issue tickets, will issue summonses calling for personal court appearance for the code or ordinance violator. Violation of city codes and ordinances carry fines up to $100 and $500 respectively and jail terms up to 90 days in the Detroit House of Correction.

The crackdown campaign follows the creation by the City of Romulus of its first code enforcement committee, which has the responsibility for bringing about better enforcement of present and future city ordinances. Carmichael was responsible for the committee's formation.

The committee, headed by Charles W. Hazen, industrial coordinator, held its first meeting Dec. 30 and recommended the immediate issuance of tickets to violators of city laws and ordinances with city building department inspectors deputized to do the job.

Fire van bid sent to chief

A bid of $3,419.11 received by the City of Romulus for the purchase of a fire van for the Fire Department has been referred to Fire Chief Joseph Crova for recommendation.

The chief had requested the purchase of the fire van and had listed required specifications. The bid was the only one submitted.

Councilman William M. Oakley moved to refer the bid to the chief for his recommendation. He was supported by Councilman Brooker R. Edwards. The vote to refer was 5 to 2.

Councilman James C. Stewart and Council President against the motion. They held that, since Chief Crova had listed the specifications, the council should act on the bid submitted without reference to the chief.

Five members of the city council felt that the chief should submit his recommendation anyway.

Council to hear Dr. Klicka

Dr. Karl S. Klicka M.D., executive director of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA), will be guest speaker before Romulus City Council at 7 p.m. Feb. 2.

Dr. Klicka will make a presentation of the PCHA, one of Michigan's largest hospital organizations, Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael told council members.

Romulus sets public hearings

Public hearings on two proposed Romulus city ordinances will be held at 7 p.m. Jan. 26 at the Water Board Building, City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar announced Monday.

The ordinances involve the creation of the Office of Commissioner of Noxious Weeds for the City of Romulus and provision for the control of narcotic and dangerous drugs and related matters.

Romulus resolution suggests emergency staff elimination

A resolution recommending to the board of directors of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) that the medical staffs of PCHA unit hospitals man the emergency rooms as part of their staff responsibilities has been approved by Romulus City Council.

The City of Romulus' resolution concurred with a similar resolution adopted by the City of Trenton.

The resolution adopted at a recent council meeting, disclosed that the city had reviewed the present procedures in emergency room services of PCHA hospitals.

According to the resolution, medical staffs of the respective unit hospitals of PCHA should man the emergency rooms as part of their staff responsibilities and the present arrangement of emergency room staffing should be eliminated.

If this requested emergency room policy cannot be implemented then the PCHA directors make it a condition of admission to the medical staff of any of its hospitals that service in the emergency room be a part of staff responsibility.

The council ordered that a copy of this resolution be sent to the director of PCHA and members of the PCHA's board of directors as well as to the governing bodies of member communities served by the PCHA.

Romulus names Morris to PCHA

Carl W. Morris, prominent Romulus resident and educator, has been appointed to the Board of Directors of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) by Romulus City Council.

The appointment of Morris was recommended by Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael. Morris resides at 13599 Huron River Dr. Romulus.

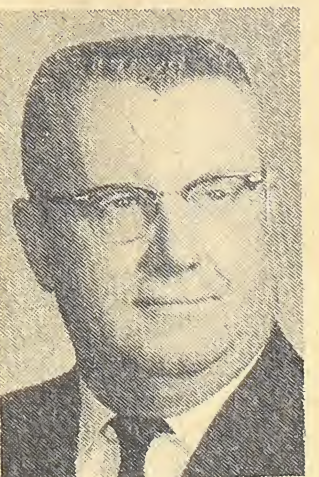

Morris who is currently president of the Romulus Board of Education and vice-president of the Wayne County Intermediate School District Board, will join Terry L. Troutt, 16325 Farnum St., Romulus on the PCHA board.

Troutt is a former state senator from the 13th senatorial district and Romulus Township official.

Watch found

A girl's wrist watch was found in the vicinity of the ice skating rink in Lower Huron Metropolitan Park New Year's Day, a Romulus resident has reported.

The person who has lost the wrist watch should call 941-1492 for its return.

Romulus resident hits 'Charter changes'

To the editor:

In 1967, the citizens of Romulus purchased 16 acres of land at a cost of $67,074.81 for the purpose of building a new city hall, police department and new library.

In 1968, the citizens of Romulus paid for a special election to obtain 1 1/2 mills on Proposal A for the purpose of operating and purchasing equipment for the Romulus Police Department for a period of five years.

Again the voters were asked to return to the polls in 1970 to vote on a City Charter for the purpose of obtaining local control. The fact has been established that the voters have repeatedly expressed a desire to retain our local police department. The Wayne County Sheriff's Department has a lot of high-priced equipment to convict people. This is not what Romulus needs. We need our local police department for the purpose of preventing crime. Prevention is our best weapon.

I firmly believe the City of Romulus could become a model city if we share the ideas of our younger generation which could bind us together to help build and improve our city. We must maintain local control at all levels if we are to go forward.

Our city is only six months old and already animosity and hard feelings have been created between our administration and the voters over an issue that could have been prevented.

I am preparing to go before the courts because I firmly believe our rights as citizens have been violated. The following questions must be decided on in a court of law.

1 - Under the constitution of the State of Michigan, does the mayor and City Council have the power to designate what type of law enforcement our city shall have?

2 - Under the constitution of the United States, when an issue such as Proposal A in 1968 - has been voted on does an elected official have the power to go over the voters heads? Will this allocated tax money be dropped from the tax rolls? Or will this money be used for a purpose other than what it was specifically designated for?

The City Charter provides for a Romulus Police Department, giving us local law enforcement. The citizens voted for the charter, in total, after careful consideration. Does our administration have the right to change any part of this charter without asking the citizens to vote on it?

I strongly urge you, as taxpayers and fellow citizens of Romulus, to consider the above three questions and give support to our own local Romulus Police Department. Let us share in making Romulus a prime example of good city government. Let us give our local police department a fair and honest chance to help serve us as taxpayers and citizens.

Van Buren critic draws criticism too

To the editor:

After reading Mr. Carlson's remarks about "The Shadow" in last week's paper, one can only wonder if Mr. Carlson doesn't moonlight as a vampire bat. His vicious attacks on prominent and respected citizens of our community is certainly aimed at creating an atmosphere of goodwill.

Mr. Hink should be condemned for donating his money to Little League and Babe Ruth Baseball Leagues, plus seeing to it that Van Buren Township obtained the Hennells Co. for its Vocational Education Programs at a personal loss to himself.

A man of his caliber and obvious interest in bettering our community can't be tolerated. No thanks should ever be shown a man who has benefited our children so unselfishly.

And speaking of police commissioners, what qualifications does Mr. Blend possess to qualify him for the job? One can only sigh with relief that Mr. Blend isn't forced to ride a motorcycle off the line of duty.

It is obvious the only protection one has against Mr. Carlson's tangs is to wear a lead scarf.

Former supervisor offers '71 wish

To the editor:

Having read the letter of a "Concerned Citizen" in the Dec. 30, 1970 issue of the Roman, and after due consideration of all its content, I have come to the conclusion that there are many people who are less fortunate than a good many of us, and that we must wish them well to maintain the proper spirit of this festive Season.

Hence -- my wish for the New Year.
May the good Lord enlighten those who are ignorant or uninformed.

May the good Lord bless those who are so gullible as to believe unfounded statements that come from vicious-minded people, and may He endow them with the ability to discern truth from fiction.

May the good Lord strengthen cowards so they will not be afraid to stand on their own feet and be recognized and identified.

But even more urgently, may the good Lord bless and endow newspaper editors with a more balanced amount of common sense and consideration of their fellow man, a true sense of responsibility to individuals as well as the public, a complete and mature understanding of their duty as a newspaperman, and the ability to determine at all times the difference between tripe and truth.

Father to head Mother's March

The Mother's March of Dimes against birth defects next week will be headed by a Romulus father.

Bill Kosick, 9324 Terry Dr., will be area chairman for Romulus, announced Mrs. Gloria Root, field representative for the drive, which will run Monday through Friday.

Commenting on his role as chairman, Kosick explained, "My wife was a captain last year and this year she is working," he said. "When they asked her to march again this year, and she was unable to do so, I volunteered to help out," he concluded.

Kosick made a plea for more volunteers, stating that he had workers in the Cory Wyndcliff, Mt. Pleasant, Merriman, Hayti and Gordonier areas. Beverly, Harrison, Romulus Elementary and part of Cory school areas do not have captains or workers yet.

Volunteers may contact the March of Dimes headquarters by calling collect to Mrs. Root at 535-5770.

Those who have volunteered as captains include Mrs. Joyce Tkachuk and Mrs. Glenna Waddell, Mt. Pleasant; Mrs. Barbara Wilbourne, Merriman; Mrs. Margaret Maitland and Mrs. Henriett Ellis, Hayti; and Mrs. Helen Wicker, Gordonier.

The March of Dimes supports birth defects clinics and research centers throughout the Nation. A new center is scheduled to open at Children's Hospital, Detroit.

A center, already in operation in Ann Arbor, is connected with the University of Michigan birth defects detection and prevention program.

Detroit firm to demolish structures

A bid submitted by the Stanson Building Wrecking Co. of Detroit for the demolition of five vacant and "unsafe" structures in the City of Romulus has been approved by City Council.

Stanson's bid of $3,999 was the lowest of four bids received.

The city has initiated a demolition program to rid of the community of dwellings and other structures deemed to be unsafe and a menace to the public health and welfare of the city.

Owners of the structures are first notified to make private arrangements for the demolition within a 30-day period. If upon failure to do so, the city performs the work and assesses the property owner the cost of demolition.

The structures and home to be demolished are located at 35820 Vinewood, 8815 Kenwood, 8837 Kenwood, 8897 Kenwood and one building on the southwest corner of Huron River Dr. and Pennsylvania Rd.

The demolition of 10 army barracks formerly rented by the Salvation Army and a nearby one-story school building were re-advertised for sealed bids by City Council.

The bids previously received for demolishing these structures, located on Middlebelt Rd. between Wick Rd. and Hildebrandt did not break down specific costs.

The council instructed City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar to state specifications clearly because bidders who submitted demolition costs on these barracks apparently didn't know of the school building.

The new bids must be in the city clerk's office by 5 p.m. Jan. 26.

Let's improve today's transit system first

Transportation to and from downtown Detroit is at best slow today.

The proud freeway system, designed to speed cars in orderly streams of traffic patterns has over the years turned into a sludgy creek of frustration and chaos. Too many cars try to get to and from Detroit daily now—a practice which is ruining some of the best laid plans.

The solution to our over-crowded freeways and travel to and from downtown area is said to be mass transit.

The community is on the receiving end of a sell-job on mono-rails, subways, conveyor cars and special trains designed to speed their human cargo from place to place at a low price with an optimum of convenience.

It seems, though, that the people of Detroit are not buying the mass transit, and we can't blame them.

The only practical example of mass transit a person sees today is the bus systems serving Detroit and the suburbs. Service on these is many times slow and inconvenient.

No thinking person will forsake the relative convenience of his own automobile to throw his fate in the hands of some bus lines.

We think that the sages of mass transit should work on what we have today, to better the service, and sell the people on the benefits of it. The first move might be to subsidize the floundering DSR system, and later the smaller bus systems, in an effort to upgrade the service they provide.

When people see that buses could serve their needs, by being at a prescribed place at a prescribed time often enough to travel conveniently, they then might ask for even better mass transit.

If they don't use the improved bus lines, then we have an indication that the citizens of this area, who pay the engineers to dream up transit schemes, won't buy those schemes, and a better system had better be found.

We'd hate to see billions of dollars spent on experimental transit programs when those systems already being utilized could serve as the test. A little upgrading might make them more attractive to the average commuter.

Community college concept may change

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK
State Representative 38th District

A special committee of the House of Representatives, after a year of studies, has arrived at some interesting recommendations on Michigan community colleges.

Many, and possibly all, of these recommendations can be expected to find their way to consideration by the 1971 session of the legislature.

The most far reaching of the suggestions is a uniform, statewide system of community colleges to replace locally controlled institutions. The committee would like to see this accomplished by 1974.

The committee feels this statewide system would mean greater educational opportunities for Michigan citizens, and at a lower cost.

This is the way the plan would work: The state would be divided into 15 regions, or community college districts. The regions would be established by apportionment committees on the basis of the 1970 federal census.

Each region would have at least $500 million in state equalized valuation and a population of at least 100,000 persons, which would produce an enrollment of not less than 1,000 fulltime students for each community college region.

There would be a governing board for each region. The board would be elected on a non-partisan basis and have from nine to 15 members. This board would have the authority to levy as much as 2.5 mills of property tax to pay operating costs.

Each of the new regions would take over all of the assets and liabilities of the community colleges located within their respective districts within six months after the election of the new boards.

This statewide system would serve about 75 per cent of the state's freshman and sophomore college students, leaving only 25 per cent in the four-year colleges and universities. The four-year institutions would therefore be able to concentrate on upper class and graduate studies.

The uniform system for all community colleges would make it easier for a student to transfer from one district to another and prevent loss of credits when a student moves from the junior college level into a four year college or university.

The population of the various regions would, of course, vary considerably. Wayne and Monroe Counties would comprise one district, with a population of some 2.8 million. The smallest district, in the northern lower peninsula, has a population of 100,500.

Here are some of the other recommendations:

The Legislature should declare community college services properly "a part of the basic governmental services provided throughout the state." In order to guarantee these services, the property tax limitation and allocation act would have to be amended to require county tax allocation board to allocate 1/2 mill out of the basic 15 mill limitation to the community college district.

An additional 1 mill levy for operating purposes would be placed on the ballot for each district.

If voters in a district approve the new community college boards could levy an additional 1 mill for operations.

The boards in each region would be able to issue bonds equal to five per cent of the region's equalized valuation to pay for site acquisition and construction.

Community college students would remain under control of the State Board of Education. Existing community college advisory boards would continue to function.

There would be a chancellor in each community college region.

The state library system would be expanded to include one regional library center at each community college region. There would be a library board for each region.

There would be established a statewide educational, non-commercial television network to serve all of the community college regions.

There would be established a standard tuition policy as of July 1, 1971, charging $10 per semester hour for all students within the districts and $30 an hour for outstate students.

Speaking of schools

Vandalism hikes school expenses

By ROBERT L. McCONEGHY, Superintendent of Romulus Schools

One item in the expense of operating a school district that is of increasing concern is that of breaking and entering and vandalism.

No school district in the State is entirely immune from this expense. It cannot be budgeted properly and school administrators must rely on past experience in setting up a budget figure.

The Romulus School District has been hit by more than the usual amount of vandalism and thefts through breaking and entering this year. During the Month of December alone, the thefts through breaking and entering cost the school district in excess of $2,600 in stolen equipment. Vandalism occurring in connection with the breaking and entering accounted for another $1,000.

Much of the vandalism involves window breakage. The school district has spent in excess of $8,700 since July 1, 1970 for replacement glass purchased and installed by an outside firm. The school district employee installations are not included in this figure.

Insurance coverage on glass is prohibitive. Insurance coverage on theft carries with it a $500 deductible for each occurrence; which means only in the case of major theft does the school district realize any significant return. However, the stolen articles must be replaced and usually at a higher price than that incurred at original purchase.

All breaking and enterings are reported to police agencies, and some equipment has been returned; also some arrests have been made.

In recognition of the increasing seriousness of this problem, the Board of Education has adopted a policy authorizing the administration to offer rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone committing vandalism or burglary on school property.

The amount of the reward to be determined at the time of the offer, and not to exceed $100. The identity of those supplying such information will be kept confidential.

Future breaking and entering and vandalism will be given wider publicity than usual throughout the school system in conjunction with this policy.

Hopefully this will help curtail this type of crime. Citizens could help by reporting any suspicious activity around the schools.

Between the lines

Constructive criticism is best

By HENRY CANTIN

The hue and cry by some of our citizenry against local public officials is oft times not warranted.

There are citizens who are always quick to complain when the operation of local, even national, government fails to meet with their approval.

They usually have some sort of complaint even in the performance of their daily chores.

Now we have nothing against criticism or dissent. These are the valuable rights of citizenship. Denial of these rights would be violation of both our state and federal constitutions.

However, we do say that a better understanding of the operation of local government and of the functions and responsibilities of our elected officials whether serving on city councils, school or township boards will do much for citizens who constantly complain.

One must not forget that the rule of the majority always prevails, not only in our elections, but when ourelcted officials meet to perform the responsibilities of their elective posts.

Instead of complaining, make your feelings known to those responsible: for the operation of your community's government, your school's administration and even to your neighbor if things are unsatisfactory.

Write to your councilman, your state representative and your U.S. congressman and let them know how you feel. They want to know and want to help. After all, you helped elect them to office and they will make better public officials if they know your feelings, especially constructive complaints.

We have attended council sessions and meetings of township and school boards and often surprised to see so little of an audience.

Despite publications of public meetings, apathy on the part of community residents still exists.

Attendance at meetings will let your elected official know that you are interested and cooperating in the conduct of community government.

Remember that important decisions affecting the present and future welfare of the community and those who reside in it are made at the scheduled public meetings of your administrative officials.

Citizens can cooperate and participate in the governing of their communities by attendance at these meetings. In so doing, one may find that his complaints were unjustified or might have been taken care of if his criticism or protests were made known to officials.

Did you know that auto theft was the leading crime last year?

The National Automobile Theft Bureau (NATB), the investigating arm of 400 insurance companies estimates that $900 million worth of cars were stolen in this country last year.

Be sure to lock your car when parking. Keys left in the ignition are an invitation to the auto thief.

Prescription for a driving dream

Lansing report

Family jewels needed for paying state's rent

LANSING — Michigan is an aging dowager down to selling off the family jewels to pay the rent and make a down payment on a cemetery lot.

The relatives, occupied with their own pursuits, don't seem to care much any more.

They're talking about liquidating the $41 million in the uninsured motorists fund, getting $30 million by advancing the payment deadline on the corporation income tax and going back for a second $30 million dip into the Veterans Trust Fund.

Oh, how they suffer.

Generations born long before any man now remembers heard the strident wails for tax reform in Michigan, a sound that still lends comfort as consistency for the future.

And over the same years the tent has been patched with fund transfers, nuisance taxes and requests to the big taxpayers to send the check early.

"It's not the fund transfers or new money," fumed Rep. Marvin R. Stempien,

By DON HOENSHELL

Republican from Livonia and majority floor leader in the House. "It's fund-grabbing and a form of dishonesty."

During the money crisis of the late 1950s and early 1960's, the legislature read a massive tax study written by Prof. Harvey Brazier, a University of Michigan economist, guidelines for reform.

Then it passed tax increases on beer, cigarettes, hotel bills and utility bills to meet the immediate crisis.

So again it's 20-20 hindsight again as the legislature gets started on the 1971 session.

It probably won't get to the point this time where the morning mail brings bags of dunning letters from the state's suppliers.

But it's bad.

The figures being used by the budget experts and some legislators are open to question and even the size of the problem varies from day to day.

Legislators already are protesting that they can't find the answers if somebody keeps changing the questions.

The new target this year is the uninsured motorists fund, created in 1954 to reimburse accident victims of uninsured drivers. It's the only major source that hasn't been tapped.

Some sources say the fund now has $41 million, others say $45 million.

Lawrence Carroll, director of the fund, said it paid out $4.7 million in 1969-70 at an apparently high administrative cost of operating the secretary of state's office and will take another $1.1 million this year.

Last year it collected $4,409,000 from the insured drivers and $9,082,000 from the uninsured drivers.

Critics in the private insurance industry who predicted financial collapse for the fund now find it's not only solvent but likely will be borrowed to keep the state from bankruptcy.

One set of figures show it will have more than $54 million by adding the more than $13 million in new payments this fiscal year, minus estimated claims of $3.5 million still pending.

The money is invested when it comes in and the estimated earnings in short term governments will be $2.5 million.

The same set of figures proposes $33 million be held in reserve for liabilities leaving a surplus of $20,129,000. They speak plainly that taking more than the surplus would be dangerous.

The answer, of course, is to take all the money now and pay the claims out of the general fund, the same technique used to preserve the theory of the Veterans Trust Fund.

Our readers write

Difference claimed between rabid, vicious

To the editor:

A few weeks ago, this newspaper printed the new dog ordinance in full. I noted at the time that it had been completely rewritten from the old one, and I felt then that several points in were quite dubious as to the wording and possible legality of enforcing same.

In this week's issue of the Roman, I note that an ordinance enforcement committee has been set up, which I believe is a good thing. However, may I suggest to the mayor and his committee that before they go about enforcing these ordinances, they had better double check on some points.

The point that I question is Section 13 of the Dog Ordinance, referring to vicious and rabid dogs. There is no question in anyone's mind, I am sure, about owning a known rabid dog. Owning a fierce or vicious dog is another matter.

I am the owner of a fierce and probably considered, vicious German Shepherd. I intend to remain the owner and harbor such a dog, because the purpose of this dog is to be a watchdog.

Does the mayor and City Council have the right to tell us we may not protect our property and our lives with a watchdog? Does the mayor and City Council claim that our city and/or county law enforcement agencies (whichever the end result will be) is so perfect and so fully manned that we need not fear for ever having inadequate coverage?

My husband is often out of town on business and I do not intend to be in a house alone unprotected from the unfortunate situation that exists in our country these days.

My neighbors on either side have often told me how grateful they are to hear my watchdog bark occasionally at night, and to know he is there, because one has a husband who is also out of town on business, and the other has a husband who works nights. No woman wants to be alone in a house and unprotected.

Does the mayor and City Council feel they can have adequate police protection constantly patrolling our streets, or would they prefer we women keep guns in the house? This I will not do.

If the mayor and City Council feel that harboring a watch dog for protection is harboring a fierce and vicious dog, then I am afraid they will eventually have their day in court with me.

"A watchdog owner"

Huron teachers laud superintendent, board

To the editor:

A recent newspaper article informed the public of impending court action against Superintendent Byron Antcliff and four board members of the Huron School District. As faculty members, we feel we must voice our concern over the allegations made by these few parents in the district.

We know the members of the faculty subscribe only to the highest standards of teaching, which are to develop good citizens with physical, emotional and mental maturity.

It is not accidental that a staff committed to these standards has been employed by the district. Rather, we believe that the quality of our staff can be primarily attributed to two factors. The first is the effort put forth by Mr. Antcliff to recruit able teachers for our district. The second is the awareness teacher candidates have that the educational program of the district would enable them to guide children in their pursuit of truth without unreasonable restrictions.

With this realization, we question the charges of a few citizens of the district who claim that "sex education" permeates our curriculum, particularly that it "is being taught in classes in home economics, health, physical education and science." The allegations further elaborate that this is done indiscriminately and imply that the instructors lack competence.

Our survey indicates that generally "sex education" has not been a part of the curriculum of our schools. If it were, however, we believe that our faculty would present such a program competently, so as to increase the knowledge of our students. Further, an essential goal of the program would be to effect positive and socially acceptable attitudes in the children.

Assistant is named to aid PCHA head

Appointment of Myles P. Lash, 24, to the position of assistant to the executive director in charge of planning and management research is announced by Dr. Karl S. Klicka, executive director of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority.

He replaces Frederick Barten who left the PCHA last August to assume a similar post with the Pontiac General Hospital. Holder of a degree of master of hospital administration from the University of Michigan, Lash brings to his new PCHA position some excellent credentials in hospital management experience.

After receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from the University of Detroit in 1968, Lash served as a research aide in the Bureau of Hospital Administration at U of M. where he assisted in gathering and analyzing data for a study of the cardiac care unit at Standish Community Hospital.

Later, as part of the Management Information System Study he implemented a detailed program of cost finding in two community hospitals and also helped develop an expense budgeting procedure manual for one of the study hospitals.

While serving his externship at Sinai Hospital in Detroit in the summer of 1968 he rotated through all the departments of the hospital observing the actual operation of each department. He also attended all board and medical staff committee meetings as well as budget review sessions.

"We are convinced Mr. Lash will be a valuable addition to our staff," said Dr. Klicka in announcing his appointment. "His talents are especially needed at this time when we are engaged in the preliminary planning for the new Taylor hospital."

In his duties as assistant to Dr. Klicka, Lash will be involved in long range planning, management analysis and patient care studies, and coordinator of In-Service management training programs.

His function will also be to conduct periodic analysis of the utilization of current health care services and facilities and the documentation of health care service needs within the PCHA service area.

Mr. and Mrs. Lash became parents for the first time on Dec. 18 with the birth of a daughter, Alissa Beth.

Lash is a life-time Detroit resident and includes among his hobbies tennis, softball, touch football and chess.

Child Care

Husbands favors son, woman says

By WILLIAM G. CROOK, M.D.

Q. I have two children, ages two and three. My problem is my two-year-old and my husband. She whines and fusses so much that my husband gets mad and yells at her or spansks her, neither of which helps. She, in turn, yells and screams which makes my husband lose his temper at her for this and they go round and round.

I have tried keeping them apart as much as possible by keeping her busy, but she loves her daddy and wants to play with him and get attention from him. She is forever kissing and hugging him. When she is like this, he is wonderful to her, but this behavior doesn't last long.

I know he loves both children the same, but he gets very riled by things she does and doesn't get annoyed if my little boy does exactly the same thing. What can I do? Mrs. L.H.

Rearing young children is a demanding and difficult job, and parents need to work together if they are to do the job successfully. And trying to "rear" both husband and child puts a strain and burden on you. Unfortunately, your husband doesn't seem to really understand what makes a two-year-old tick. He doesn't realize that two-year-olds are normally "ornery" and indecisive. They're whining and crying one minute and loving the next.

It seems your husband has put himself on the child's level. He is either acting like a child or expecting the two-year-old child to behave like a miniature adult (which, of course, she isn't).

In my own practice, I've had mothers come to me with similar problems, and here's the way I'd try to handle it: I'd call the father and ask him to come in for a chat. Often, by listening to him and his problems, and letting him know I'm genuinely interested, I find that he, in turn, is more apt to listen to my advice.

Although this won't solve all of the problems, it works a lot better than having the mother relay some sort of message from me to the father, such as "Don't fuss at your child" or "Don't spank."

So get in touch with your doctor and see if he can help you work out this problem with you and your husband.

Q - My teen-age daughter has a number of warts and they seem to be spreading all over her hands. The doctor says there's nothing that can be done for her. I'm a great believer in what you say and would appreciate any further advice you could give me.

A - No one has an easy cure for warts, but this doesn't mean that "nothing can be done."

I talked to a skin specialist about your daughter's problem. He said, "It's certainly worth treating several of these warts with a mild acid or dry ice. For reasons that aren't clearly understood, sometimes when you freeze or burn several warts off, the others will disappear spontaneously at about the same time."

So I'd suggest you consult a skin specialist for additional advice and treatment.

Q-I read about the 4-year-old girl whose parents were going crazy because she wouldn't go to sleep until after midnight every night.

I'm writing in because there's a possible reason for this problem that wasn't mentioned in your column. According to my parents, I did this same sort of thing when I was about the same age, and my parents were going crazy, too. My pediatrician finally told them, "Try turning down the heat at night." My parents did this, and I never again had that problem. M.T.

A-Thanks for your suggestion. I'm sure an overheated room can cause a child (or an adult) to be restless at night. I'll pass along your suggestion to other readers.

(Incidentally, I like to sleep in a cool room myself.)

(If you have a child care problem you would like discussed in this column, write in care of the Enterprise-Roman.)

Fisher offering is Neil Simon's best

Saint Subber presents "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," a comedy in three acts by Neil Simon, directed by Robert Moore, sets by Oliver Smith, costumes by Donald Brooks, lighting by Peggy Clark. At the Fisher Theatre through Feb. 6 with the following cast: Jack Weston, Rosemary Prinz, Ginger Flick, Marge Redmond.

By HOWARD ALLEN
Eagle Drama Critic

Attempting to assess the role of a playwright in future compendiums of great theater is almost as hazardous as trying to predict what history books 50 years hence will say in assessing the role of any given president.

Some of the things said about Shakespeare's plays immediately after their opening in an era when language was not particularly restrained could not be printed in a family paper today.

Yet one of the best bets of the past decade is that 21st century anthologies of American drama will find it de rigueur to include a Neil Simon effort, along with a Eugene O'Neill an Arthur Miller and a Rodgers and Hammerstein.

I am here and now ready to take on all comers on the assessment that Doc Simon today is the finest writer of comic plays extent for the last decade.

Previous reviews here have commented on his ability to pack a gem of wit into every other line while never dropping a beat in his plot development. This talent was never put to better use than in "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," current production at the Fisher Theatre.

In what amounts to almost three one-act plays, Simon offers Barney Cashman, a 47-year-old seafood restaurateur who married his childhood sweetheart and hasn't even slept with another woman since a youthful encounter with a pro which left him slightly sick.

Aware that life may soon depart without even one memorable fling, one bit of madcap romance, Cashman attempts three afternoons of sin, at the only non-degrading available, his mother's 37th street apartment on the Tuesday afternoon she volunteers for charity work at Mt Sinai.

His first attempt is with the brittle and cold Elaine. He slips an extra shrimp into her appetizer and writes the apartment address on a match cover, but can't cope with a woman who wants a mechanical romp in bed when Barney seeks to get the violins going.

Then comes Bobbi, a psychopathic entertainer who is convinced the world is engaged in a massive conspiracy to force her into degrading sex acts and whose companions include a lesbian Nazi roommate and a sadist who sharpens his teeth. In sheer terror at what may happen if he crosses her, Barney reluctantly joins her in his first experience at pot.

But it is with Jeanette, his wife's friend, that Barney faces his most stirring moments and Simon presages his first semi-serious drama, this year's "Gingerbread Lady," with a small gem of an act. Jeanette is totally miserable with life and presents a remarkable portrait of a disenchanted woman, forcing Barney to counteract for the evening's most arresting moments.

The memory of James Cagney's classic performance in New York last year, forbids too much praise for Jack Weston, whose Cashman relies too heavily on surface mannerisms, at times almost convulsions.

Probably the most polished performance is that of Ginger Flick's Bobbi; a bit too much warmth is evident in Rosemary Prinz' Elaine and a bit too much cheer in Marge Redmond's Jeanette.

But these are minor points. If "Lovers" doesn't make the anthologies 50 years hence it will only be because another Simon classic like "Barefoot in the Park" has edged it out.

RYANS DAUGHTER — David Lean uses spectacular effects to enhance the telling of a love story in "Ryan's Daughter". In this scene the villagers of Killybegs run for their lives as a gigantic, storm-tossed sea smashes onto the Irish coast. The film, which stars Robert Mitchum, Trevor Howard, Christopher Jones, John Mills, Leo McKern and Sarah Miles in the title role, is on view now at the Quo Vadis entertainment center in Westland.

Hustlin' Hank at Museum Theater

The Greenfield Village Famous Early Movies Series presents the 1923 Western classic "Hustlin' Hank", starring Will Rogers on Sunday at 2 and 4 p.m. in the Henry Ford Museum Theater.

In this film, Rogers plays a lazy ranch hand with a small capacity for work and a large appetite. Things begin to pop when the ranch owner's sister comes from the big city to photograph the Wild West.

The second feature is "Tumbleweeds," a William S. Hart Western epic designed and directed by Hart as his own starring vehicle. Based on a true account of the 1899 landrush over the Cherokee Indian Territory, the story despises the inevitable westward movement of civilization.

Hart viewed the event in this film much like a contemporary newsreel using the movement of vast herds of cattle across the plains to symbolize the exchange of open pasture lands for cramped, fenced-in farms.

He plays a cowpuncher who joins the landrush because he has chosen his bride and wants to settle down, but shows his regret at seeing the last of the Old West.

Admission to the Theater is free beyond the regular Museum admission of $2 for adults and $1 for children 6 through 14.

'Haunting of Hill House'

Karen Anderson stars in Wayne Civic drama

Karen Anderson, who starred as Romaine in "Witness for the Prosecution", will again lead the Wayne Civic Players in their production of "The Haunting of Hill House" to be performed Feb. 5-7 at John Glenn High School.

A resident of Wayne and the mother of two, Karen has experience both behind the scenes and in front of the spotlight.

She has worked on make-up for "The Crucible" in 1970, on costumes for "Oh Dad, Poor Dad," in 1969, and was assistant director of "Janus" in 1970.

Acting is what she enjoys most, she said. Karen has appeared as Winkie in "The Wizard of Oz," Morgan Lafayette in "Arthur and Ten Magic Swords," and Elizabeth Corban in "Catch Me if You Can."

Her role as Eleanor in "The Haunting of Hill House" is a new challenge to Karen. She portrays a sensitive and lonely young woman in house of many secrets.

Tickets for "The Haunting of Hill House" may be obtained at the door on the evening of the performance or by calling Mrs. Ann Button, 261-3183.

Paul Gregory in association with the American Conservatory Theatre presents as part of the Detroit Institute of Arts Concert Series, sponsored by the Founders Society, Edith J. Freeman, chairman, "Hamlet" a tragedy presented in two acts by William Shakespeare, directed by William Ball, sets and costumes by Robert Fletcher, lighting by Jules Fischer, sound by Parker Young. At the Art Institute Theatre with the following cast: Dame Judith Anderson, Laurence Hugo, Don McHenry, Ludi Claire, Philip Kerr, Jeanne Bartlett, Leon Charles, Rick Poe, Robert Ground, Stephen Newman.

By HOWARD ALLEN
Eagle Drama Critic

There is nothing like a dame—and certainly nothing like Dame Judith Anderson's "Hamlet," presented by Paul Gregory and the American Conservatory Theatre on the Detroit Institute of Arts Concert series last week.

It was the most disappointing production seen in Detroit in a long time.

There is nothing specifically against a woman playing "Hamlet." Miss Anderson follows in a long tradition and students of the Bard will note that sexual relationship were originally considered only in the abstract since all roles—male and female—were played by men in Shakespeare's day.

But Miss Anderson's Hamlet is aging, not vital, remote and impersonal. The whole production, actually, seems intellectual and abstract—a conclusion reinforced by the plush red settings with the entire cast, save Miss Anderson, garbed in a winy scarlet and resembling nothing so much as chessmen in a chess board.

Adding to the artificially of William Ball's staging are a series of conventions and ritualized gestures which often fail to exceed the emotional level of Gilbert and Sullivan. Pantomime is heavily used, with most of the props, from Yorick's skull to the swords missing. The duels are symbolically staged and deaths are noted merely by a slumping of the deceased.

This is a bare-bones production, in short, mean and unsatisfying and offering the audience only the possibility of assimilating images. But Hamlet is no ballet, no charade, no Japanese Noh drama. Can anyone dispute that the essence of Shakespeare's genius was his great sense of drama, his soaring characterizations, the excitement of participating in high tragedy?

Not a single solitary thread of this remains.

There were many poor performances in this production—certainly Laurence Hugo's Claudius is one of the most trifling of villains ever to come down to pike—but is fair to aim most of the censure at Miss Anderson. A female Hamlet is sufficient novelty so that the production must be judged basically in terms of the lead interpretation.

And Miss Anderson's Hamlet is chilling, withered and flat. In fact, although this production began months ago on the west coast, she seems not to have even grasped the role—at least on this one night—even unto stumbling for lines. It may merely have been a bad night; one surely expects that there is something more to the role. But not tonight.

The entire production was staged almost ensemble fashion, cut to two hours with much of the byplay and most of the minor characters gone. But there is no real quarrel with the cutting—it was acceptable. In fact, its brevity was actually a mercy.

'Disney on Parade' coming to Olympia

Old friends in a new context are due when Olympia Stadium presents "Disney on Parade" opening Tuesday, Feb. 9 and continuing through Saturday, Feb. 13. Such old favorites as Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Pluto and others come to life on the king-sized arena floor.

Nearly 100 actors, actresses and specialty performers will be seen live, while film segments of such Walt Disney classics as "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Pinocchio," and "Fantasia" will be shown.

The show will tour 84 cities, comprising most of the cities in the U.S. and Canada having populations of over 100,000. The logistics involved in moving this vast troupe, its costumes and special equipment are staggering, but they haven't missed a date yet.

Tickets are available at the Olympia box office and all major J. L. Hudson stores.

Young people must accept vote challenge

By CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM D. FORD

After many years of debate and controversy, the United States Supreme Court has ended all argument about whether young people, 18 through 20, shall have the right to vote in federal elections. Beginning in 1972, members of this age group will cast their ballots for President, Vice President, U.S. Senators and Congressmen.

Michigan and the other states have begun to unravel the many knotty problems that this decision has created — will these young people also vote for state and local officials? If not, must separate registration rolls be kept? The situation in Michigan is further complicated by the fact that Michigan voters in November, rejected a proposed state Constitutional amendment to lower the state voting age to 18.

The ultimate answer appears to lie either in an amendment to the United States Constitution, which would require approval by three-fourths of the states, or by individual state action.

I personally hope that either of these actions may be brought about as quickly as possible, to give complete voting rights to all Americans over the age of 18. I say this as a "convert" to the cause, for I originally opposed a lower voting age.

My change of mind came during the Michigan Constitutional Convention of 1961-62, in which I served as a delegate. I went to the convention firmly convinced that no one under 21 should be allowed to vote. As a member of the Elections Committee, I participated in long study and debate on this topic, and I realized that I had been wrong. I became an advocate of voting rights at 18.

I supported the lower voting age during my two years in the Michigan State Senate, and since my election to Congress, I have been a co-sponsor each year of legislation to amend the federal Constitution to accomplish this goal. I was a supporter of the 1970 amendment to the Voting Rights Act of 1965, which granted the franchise to all persons over 18. This legislation was adopted last June, but the Dec. 21 Supreme Court ruling made it applicable only to federal elections.

It is my hope that our new Secretary of State, Richard Austin, and local officials throughout Michigan will work together in the weeks ahead to begin registration of young people aged 18 through 21. Every American should reorganize this thinking on this matter. The American people must be educated as to the value of this long-overdue move.

The young people of the nation face a special challenge. I have long argued that, if we are to expect young people to act responsibly, we must give them responsibility. In giving them the Federal voting franchise, we have done this. Now it is up to the young people to accept this challenge. They must live up to their responsibility, and prove that we who argued their case were right. They must establish their maturity, intelligence and awareness — their ability to function as responsible adults.

Camping, trailering provide year of fun

Camping and trailering have become year-round fun for more and more Michigan families—and not just those who head for Florida or Arizona when the wintry blasts blow.

One way or another, the trailer owner should prepare his vehicle for winter. He can winterize it, of course—empty the water lines, perform a few other elementary chores, and jack it up and wait for spring.

Or he can winterproof it and use it for trips to ski and snowmobile areas. Many of the trailers and campers which will be on display at the fourth annual Detroit Camper and Travel Trailer Show are eminently suitable for winterproofing and year-around use, according to Dan Dowsett, show director.

Exhibitors at the show, which runs from Feb. 13 through 21 at the Detroit Artillery Armory on W. Eight Mile Road near the Northland shopping center, also will be glad to give advice to the prospective buyer on how to use his rig on a year-around basis.

For winter use, recreational vehicles must be properly insulated and ventilated. Many, of course, already are. Some even offer custom-fitted storm windows and doors.

But even those which are not custom winterproofed can be used in cold weather. Styrofoam and Fiberglas materials can be for insulation. Tough plastic can serve as storm windows and doors. And dealers can provide other materials for proper coldproofing.

The simplest of methods for winterproofing the water lines is to drain them and carry water in jugs for drinking and washing. But another, which many trailer owners are coming around to, is keeping the vehicle on low heat all winter with an outside propane gas unit which can be disconnected when the trailer is put into use and its own furnace goes into operation.

Use of a tent camper is not out of the question in winter, either. It, too, can be winterproofed with plastic materials and a properly ventilated gas heater.

A lovelier you

Post-holiday pounds away!

By MARY SUE MILLER

Have you weighted-in lately? How bad was the tally? If you have gained more than five pounds from Holiday feasting, begin today to take them off. One painless way is to cut back your butter intake. You are probably not conscious of how much you have been eating. But all those wonderful puddings, pies and cakes you had were loaded with butter, the most fattening of all ingredients.

Even for normal-weighted adults, 200 calories daily of fat (all kinds) are sufficient. A reducer's limit is 100 calories per day. Now don't groan. There are many delicious substitutes for butter - overages of butter.

Spread bread and breakfast toast with low-cal jams and jellies.

Use mustard or Worcestershire to dress meats; low-cal mayonnaise for fowl.

Spike vegetable with herbs, spices or onion. You will never know how delicious most vegetables are until you cook them lightly and eat them au naturel.

Try corn on the cob with nothing else than a dash of salt. For fish a delicious topping mixes fresh chopped parsley or chives and a squeeze of lemon juice. Tabasco, hot and spicy, makes a gourmet seasoning for seafood.

Baked potatoes, sprinkled with grated Parmesan cheese, are a taste thrill. (Parmesan, 10 calories for a heaping spoonful.)

When you use butter on meat for cooking purposes, melt it and spread with a pastry brush. Use the whipped variety if a serving of butter is essential. It contains 30 per cent fewer calories.

SECRETS OF A LOVELY FIGURE

What's your figure problem? To achieve total attractiveness send for my booklet, SECRETS OF A LOVELY FIGURE. It contains easy ways to reduce weight and proportions; to overcome grooming problems, such as fuzz, freckles and blemishes; to move with grace and poise. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of The Daily Eagle, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin.

Fall election date city exemption due

The City Council has until Jan. 21 to exempt the City of Belleville from provisions of Michigan's odd-year election law.

The city now conducts elections of municipal officers in April of even years, with the next election set for April, 1972.

A new state law calls for holding odd-year elections for all two-year elective terms.

If the city council fails to vote an exemption resolution at its Jan. 18 session, then the terms of present council members would be extended to November, 1973.

There were indications that the mayor and council would adopt the exemption resolution.

Banquet, derby set

Plans for a blue and gold banquet, a Pinewood derby and an urgent plea for more adult involvement in scouting activities occupied parents and leaders of Cub Pack 735 at their meeting last Thursday.

Cubmaster LeRoy Sims, assisted by awards chairman Rick Martin, presented awards to Greg Pare, Wolf badge, one gold and one silver star; John Payne and Robert Taylor, dinner bars; Robert Routly and James Doss, assistant dinner bars.

The parents due to a lack of funds to purchase a main course, decided the entire blue and gold meal would be potluck.

The Pinewood Derby was scheduled for Monday. Cubs and their fathers will work together to design and carve miniature auto racers from uniform blocks of pine wood. The race will be competitive between father-and-son teams.

Cubmaster Sims expressed an urgent appeal for den mothers, committeemen and more active parent interest in general. It was pointed out that dropping boys off for meetings is not enough, that the purpose of scouting is to bring fathers, sons and families closer through cooperation and work on worthwhile projects.

Over 36,800,000 persons have visited Kensington Metropolitan Park near Milford since it opened on May 30, 1948.

A SPANISH LUNCHEON - The Spanish Club at Beverly Elementary School in Romulus held a recent luncheon at the school that featured a Spanish menu of tacos; Spanish conversation also was a must. Ena Willism (left) teacher Joel Marvil, one of the luncheon's sponsors; student Lisa Johnson, and her mother, Mrs. Johnson, and Mrs. Lorena Burton, coordinator of federal and state programs for Romulus schools partake of the luncheon.

Club has luncheon

The Spanish Club at the Beverly Elementary School, 35408 Beverly Rd. Romulus, attracted approximately 50 club members at a recent club luncheon that featured tacos and Spanish conversation.

The affair was sponsored by student teacher Joel Marvil and third grade teacher Mrs.

Alderene Solomon. Club members were students from grades three through six.

The unique luncheon was the third such affair. Others included a conversational Spanish Assembly and Pinola Fiesta, reported School Principal Terrel M. LeCesne.

Nunley-8 pts from Super Bowl

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Eight points away from the National Football Conference football championship...

Eight points away from playing Baltimore in the Super Bowl for the world football crown...

That's how close — and far — Frank Nunley, former Belleville High School football great, presently with the San Francisco 49ers, came to realizing a dream.

Nunley, 25, the middle linebacker for the 49ers saw those dreams shattered last week when the Dallas Cowboys emerged with a 17-10 victory over San Francisco at Kezar Stadium.

The victory shoved the Cowboys into the Super Bowl which will be played on Sunday.

How does Nunley feel now that it's all over?

"I'm kind of disappointed that we didn't go all the way," said the rugged middle linebacker who had to be coaxed into continuing to play football in college in his junior year. "After beating the Minnesota Vikings, I thought for sure we were going to make it."

In the Dallas game, Nunley came up with a couple of crucial tackles, but was injured early in the battle. What happened?

"I really don't know," he said. "I guess I caught someone's knee and it dazed me temporarily. But I got over it quickly." Those "pileups" in football also brought a concerning remark from Frank's mother, Mrs. Mary Nunley, of Belleville.

"To me, it's really frightening," she said. "Gee, sometimes I get so frightened I don't even want to watch."

But Mrs. Nunley, and her husband, Frank, have been watching their son play for a long time. In fact, Frank Jr. received his tutoring from his father, who played his college ball at the University of Chattanooga. The Nunley's, who originally hail from Florence, Alabama, brought Frank north when he was six years old. That was nearly 20 years ago. As a youngster Frank played three sports — basketball, baseball and football.

When Harry Hidenfelter, Belleville athletic director, then head football coach, got a hold of young Frank he saw great potential in the young athlete.

Nunley quickly earned varsity status after serving only a half year on the Tiger reserve unit in 1959. Frank developed first on defense, his forte, as a linebacker, then played fullback in his senior year.

He led Belleville to the Suburban Six conference championship in 1960.

"Frank was just an outstanding football player for us," said Hidenfelter who has followed his former star's progress throughout the years. On defense he would just dive over men to get at the ball-carriers and at the end of his prep career there were at least 38 to 40 colleges and universities who were interested in him."

Hidenfelter went on to point out "that Frank's real success is in his loyalty to the people he works with and for."

"He generates enthusiasm and teamwork and is an inspiration with whom he plays. I doubt if anyone had any greater impact on the 49ers this year as did Frank Nunley."

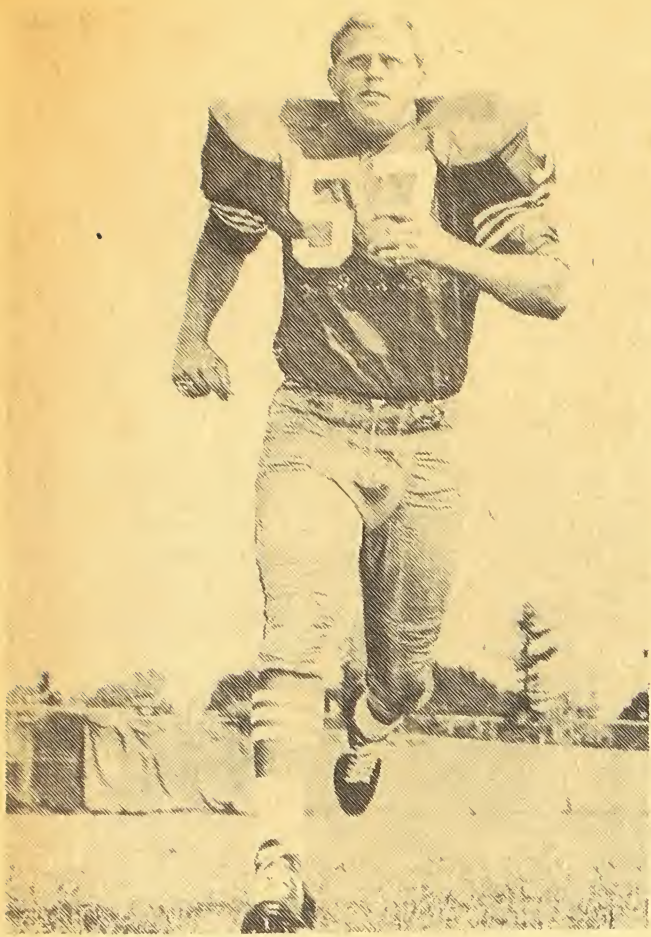

Nunley, who went on to star at the University of Michigan, earning All-Big 10 recognition as a linebacker in 1966 and 1967, wasn't thinking seriously of a professional football career until his junior year in college.

"It's strange now that I look back," said Nunley. "I wasn't thinking of playing in the pros. Then some of the scouts said I had a good chance of being drafted and that did it."

Nunley has been grinding away on defense for the past four years for the 49ers, helping them to the Western Division Conference title, with a 10-3-1 record. He had an outstanding day against both the Minnesota Vikings, a team they dumped 17-14, to qualify for the NFC title bout with Dallas and against the Cowboys.

Married to Lynn, the Nunleys also assured themselves of another future pro griddy last September when their first son, Frank III, was born on Sept. 2.

A BELLEVILLE 49er — Since his days as a prep at Belleville High School, Frank Nunley has been making the headlines and the tackles. The former grid star is presently handling the middle linebacker chores for the San Francisco 49ers who made it to the National Football Conference championship game before being ousted by Dallas last week.

Wrong head

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

Sure picked a loser in the Ned Harkness and Sid Abel feud, didn't I? And the fans made sure I was immediately informed about my errant choice. Here's what one fan had to say:

Dear Mr. Mooradian,
So, "Someone's head is going to fall, and you can bet that it won't be Sid Abel's", huh? Well, by now, you and the world know that Harkness is still the Detroit Red Wings coach and Abel is the "former" Red Wings general manager.

We fans are really disgusted.

But there's nothing we can do about it because we love hockey. But it goes to show that if a guy devotes 30 years of his life to some organization as Sid Abel loyally did, it doesn't assure the guy peace in his latter years and what fans should do is hang that carpetbagger Bruce Norris who apparently is the senile one.

We enjoy reading your column.

Sincerely,
Tom Paige
Westland

Dear Tom,
It just goes to show I'm human. I picked a loser - but it didn't cost me as much as the one I backed recently at the East, West game. I still can't get over that one.

Zebras, how about some support

And our man Dann Barkume writes:

Wayne Memorial's basketball and wrestling teams could use a little support like the football team got last season. The Zebra grapplers are undefeated thus far in the current campaign and show up as one of the best wrestling squads in the area. Attendance at the meets and general support from the school and the Booster Club leaves a little to be desired.

The basketball team leaves something to be desired in their performances so far this year. They have managed to win only one game and the cagers are fast adopting a defeatist attitude. Cage coach Doug Myers can't really put his finger on the problem but maybe a little more support on the part of the students and Zebra fans would give the cagers a little better outlook on their current dilemma.

Wayne hasn't always been a winner, but their tradition for support of their teams has always been good and in recent years, their fans have had a loyalty second to none.

With basketball, swimming and wrestling all in full swing, Zebra sports enthusiasts have plenty to keep themselves occupied and the athletes could use a little support. Whether they win or lose is not the reason, but they are trying no matter what the final score turns out to be.

Faltering Huron meets league leader next

First year Coach Marty Hotvedt will have seven days to forget about two frustrating losses and to prepare for league leader, Flat Rock.

The rookie Huron basketball coach saw the Chiefs outgunned Friday night by Monroe Catholic Central 90-68 after dropping a 72-71 cliffhanger to Airport last Tuesday.

"There will be some changes made in our lineup this week," said Coach Hotvedt whose Chiefs will play Flat Rock on Saturday at home, Flat Rock also is rated among the top Class B teams in the state this season.

"I've viewed the films and what I have seen there and on the court hasn't pleased me. Therefore, we will have to make some sort of changes.

Hotvedt however refused to say just what changes he was contemplating.

One thing for sure, he's going to have to find a basket-producing center or pivotman. Against Catholic Central, his big men didn't do the job while Monroe received 44 points between Tom Rollant and Rob Hayes. Rollant's 22 was the game's high.

"That was the difference in the game," said Coach Hotvedt. "We just can't let them get away with that."

The Chiefs are standing upon a 2-4 league record and are way out of the title race - a race they were in until the final week last year.

Huron made a game of it for the first half against the Monroe quintet as the Chiefs stayed close behind 23-20 at the end of the opening quarter. Catholic Central had a 40-32 halftime edge, then exploded for a 20-11 third period to tuck it away.

With the accent on offense, the subs went to work in the last stanza and again C.C. scored a 30-25 advantage.

Butch Suemnick, who shot in 10 of his 14 points in the first quarter and Randy Gorham, who had 21 points, were the only Huron cagers in double figures.

On Tuesday, Huron watched its five point margin evaporate against Airport as the Pilots landed a 73-71 victory despite the phenomenal foul-shooting of Suemnick who hit 14 of 14 at the free throw line, a school record.

Suemnick finished with 22 points while teammates Gorham, with 14, Don Middlestat and Glenn Oregansky who each and 10 also were in doubles.

RECORD SPLASHDOWN - Belleville's junior performer on the boards, Barry Susterka, heads for a splash landing in last week's crucial meet with Livonia Bentley.

Susterka compiled 233.4 points to win the diving competition and the Tigers piled up a 57-48 victory to remain undefeated in the Suburban Six Conference this year.

Bentley belts Belleville

Not only did Belleville lose its bid to spoil undefeated Livonia Bentley's basketball record in the Suburban Six Conference Friday night, but the Tigers also lost their head coach for nearly four minutes of the final quarter.

Belleville Coach Allen Gates rushed out on the court to argue a ref's call and, after sustaining two technical fouls, the Tiger mentor was invited to leave the game.

"I've never been ejected from a game before," said Coach Gates after his team suffered their second conference defeat 65-50 at the hands of the Bulldogs. "I went out there to argue a flagrant violation - one of the Livonia player threw a body block on my player and stole the ball and wasn't called for it but when my player took the ball back, he was called for the violation and I just couldn't sit there and do nothing about it."

Bentley, which has now won three straight in the conference and is in sole possession of first place, didn't waste much time with the cold-shooting Tiger quintet who couldn't buy a basket in the first eight minutes. Belleville fell behind 23-8 for the initial quarter.

Later the ref denied ejecting Coach Gates from the game.

It was one game that Belleville, the visitor, also didn't get a chance to shoot a one-and-one all evening. Of this, Coach Gates commented: "Never in my career have I ever seen that happen, a team not getting at least one benefit of a bonus free throw. That's ridiculous."

Of the 10 free throws the Tigers did shoot, they made 10 of them. Bentley slipped in 20 of 32 from the line.

Bentley, which has now won three straight in the conference and is in sole possession of first place, didn't waste much time with the cold-shooting Tiger quintet who couldn't buy a basket in the first eight minutes. Belleville fell behind 23-8 for the initial quarter.

It was an upward struggle for Coach Gates' quintet from there on and the Tigers never managed to catch up, despite making it uncomfortable for the hosts thanks to the sharpshooting of Bob Lytle.

Trailing by 15 at the close of the quarter, Lytle sparked the Tigers to a 37-27 halftime. They trailed 49-37 at the three quarter mark and mustered enough scoring power to cut the lead to eight points, but that's the closest the losers got.

Bentley's Dave Veach, who drilled in 11 of his 19 points in the first quarter, was the game's leading scorer. Teammates Lou Lovett and Brian Dinsmore chipped in 11 and 19 points, respectively.

Lytle's 16 on seven baskets and two free throws were tops for Belleville. He was the only member of the tiger quintet in double figures, though Garrade Pettus, Mike Garland and Marty Miller each had nine.

Belleville (1-2) will try to even up its league record Friday night at Allen Park, which occupies the cellar of the league. The Tigers played a strong Dearborn High quintet last night.

About kids who want to play pro ball, what has the 49er defensive star to say?

"Most kids today think that in order to play football that's all they have to think about — it isn't true. First comes school and your classwork."

"What player today can you name that didn't go to college?" he rhetorically asked. "Very few."

"If you drop out of high school, what chance do you have catching the eye of a college scout? Or a pro scout? None," he said.

And who does Frank Nunley pick in the Super Bowl? "I got to go with Baltimore. They have more things going for them and I really think they can handle that Dallas defense."

Romulus is next in line for Rouge

This is it for Romulus High cagers. After a 73-67 Twin Valley Conference setback at Ecorse Friday night, Coach Dave Court's Eagles must get around defending league champ, River Rouge, on Friday night to keep "alive" in the title race.

"We can still be in it if we can beat them here," said Coach Court. "It's our big game of the year and I think we can beat them because our kids have more confidence at home. "And I think this factor is going to help us a lot," he added. The home factor did count plenty last Friday as Ecorse see-sawed its way to its first league win of the season. Up by five points at halftime, 44-39, the Red Raiders fought off the Eagles who managed to take the lead in the last three minutes of the game.

Romulus' ineptness at the free throw line helped in their undoing. The Eagle's missed 10 one and one situations, including one with 2:20 on the clock which would have tied up the score.

The Eagles also had the partial services of their high-scoring pivotman, Nat Williams, who had three fouls on him within less than eight minutes playing time. Also benched in the last nine minutes of the game because of personal fouls was Carl Peggs, a starting sophomore guard.

Led by Davis' 25 points, chalked up by 11 direct hits from the court and three free throws, Romulus had three cagers in doubles. Calvin Harris poured in 18 on nine field goals and Keith Simmons counted 10.

The game's high scorer was Ecorse's gunner Lawrence Stroud who drilled in 12 baskets and six free throws for 30 points. He received ample support from Romie Wourman who had 16

FitzPatrick elected county board chairman

Robert E. FitzPatrick, a Democrat from Detroit's west side, is the new chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

FitzPatrick successfully opposed Commissioner George F. Killen, of Detroit, D-District 2, in a close contest requiring six ballots cast before a near-capacity audience in the City-County Building auditorium Jan. 5.

The final vote by the 26-member Board favored FitzPatrick 14-12.

Commissioner Joseph F. Young, also a Detroit Democrat, was elected Vice Chairman 15-11 on one ballot. He represents District 4 on the East Side.

Board members took the oath of office at the beginning of the meeting, the first of the new two-year term. A chairman and vice chairman are chosen annually.

The new board consists of 25 Democrats and one Republican, a gain of one seat for the Democrats.

FitzPatrick succeeds Albert J. Zak, of Hamtramck, D-District 8, who did not seek the chairmanship after holding the post for two consecutive years.

In his acceptance speech, FitzPatrick said he will appoint task forces to study legislative goals and regional problems, and mentioned several other areas which require the "immediate attention" of the board.

A legislative task force, formed from within the membership of the Board, is to report back to the board within 60 days with proposals for strengthening the effectiveness of county government during 1971.

"I would assume that this task force will learn about how the agencies of county - including this board - can best relate to local units of government within the county and with the Michigan legislature, and will make suggestions on how we should go about this," said FitzPatrick.

A second task force, also composed of board members, will assess Wayne County's involvement with regional problems and its association with regional agencies, such as the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board and the Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

"There are many indicators," said FitzPatrick, "that this arena is demanding of our attention and that by adding whatever energy and intelligence we can to the regional system, we will be better serving the people who elect us."

Other problems to which the board must immediately address itself, said FitzPatrick, include:

- Reform of county governmental structure;
- Reform of county health services, with special attention to mental health and drug abuse facilities;
- Problems of the Wayne County jail;
- Judicial and welfare reform; and
- Examination of civil service hiring and promotion practices.

FitzPatrick was elected to the Board of Commissioners from Detroit's District 13 in November 1970 after serving most of the previous two-year term by board appointment. He was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Dr. Joseph G. Molner, commissioner-elect who died before the board took office in January 1969. FitzPatrick had finished second to Dr. Molner in the primary election.

A native Detroit, FitzPatrick is a graduate of Mackenzie High School and attended Alma College and Florida State University. He is the administrator of a medical clinic in Livonia.

As chairman, FitzPatrick will earn $12,000 per year, compared to $10,000 for other members of the board.

Other members of the new Board of Commissioners are:

Michael J. Novak, Detroit, District 1; Ervin A. Steiner Jr., Grosse Pointe Farms, District 3; Huey A. Ferguson, Detroit, District 5; Charmie Currie, Detroit, District 6.

Eugene A. Sikora, Detroit, District 7; Frederick Yates, Detroit, District 9; William L. Dunbar, Detroit, District 10; Paul Silver Detroit, District 11; Michael J. Reilly, Detroit, District 12; Thomas P. O'Rourke, Detroit, District 14; Mrs. Catherine Shavers, Detroit, District 15; Edward Jones, Detroit, District 16; Mrs. Rose Mary C. Robinson, Detroit, District 17; Roscoe L. Bobo, Ecorse, District 18; Richard E. Manning, Redford, District 19; John Lesinski, Dearborn, District 20; Joseph Cardinal, Dearborn District 21; William G. Suzore, Lincoln Park, District 22; James DeSana, Wyandotte, District 23; John N. Sabo Jr., Taylor, District 24; James R. McCartney, Westland, District 25; and John J. McCann, Livonia, District 26.

Steiner is the sole Republican.

Rotary hosts trip to circus

The New Boston Rotary Club will play host to 55 elementary students from Huron Township elementary schools at the Feb. 3 presentation of the Shrine Circus at the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

The schools are the Hannan Road Elementary School, Riverside Elementary School, Huron Elementary School, St. John Lutheran Elementary School and the St. Stephen Catholic School.

Larry Stroble and Leland Truax, members of the New Boston Rotary Club have made arrangements for procuring tickets and transportation. Luke Wegienka will contact the principals of these schools requesting that they select their school's eligible students.

All the school principals have indicated that they would have their students ready for the trip to the circus, Wegienka reported.

In addition to getting tickets for the circus, the club has planned something extra for those students who will be riding the bus to the circus. Members of the Rotary club will act as chaperones.

Gray appointed acting principal

Robert W. Gray, elementary supervisor for Van Buren Public Schools, has been named acting principal at the Elwell Elementary School.

Superintendent Dale E. Klauwitz announced the appointment.

Gray will be in charge until the Board of Education selects a successor to fill the vacancy caused by the death in December of Carl J. Simmons, who was principal at Elwell Elementary School since the 1962-63 school year.

Seven persons have filed applications for the principal's post at Elwell, Kaulitz reported. Placements bureaus at various universities have been contacted and informed of the vacancy, he said.

Gray resides at 42435 E. Huron River Dr., Belleville.

Watch Night
New Year's Eve means it's Watch Night--
Time for fun and reflection--
A backward glance with memories and tears,
Then look ahead in the right direction.

From the long gone distant past,
I read in a book from an old book shelf,
"Ask the New Year what you should watch"--
Loud and clear the answer--"Watch yourself!"

Watch your ideas and your plans,
Watch your action and each thought,
Watch your conscience and your heart,
Follow the way Our Master taught.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

Wise men wrote in our Declaration of Independence -- "... among men's unalienable rights are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness ..." Lets think about the pursuit.

Many people frantically, and some times tragically pursue happiness over twisted, tortuous roads but never find it. Perhaps the Declaration of Independence would be better worded if it stated, "... "the right to EARN happiness" ... Happiness can never be found, no matter how wild the pursuit, if it is not earned.

Perhaps one of the biggest stumbling blocks in pursuing happiness is selfishness. Somewhere in the path of life, and often in childhood, the first stumbling blocks are laid in a pattern. As the pattern takes form, self centered thoughts, selfish expectations and demands, cause happiness to be elusive. Remove the stumbling blocks of selfishness and the road to happiness is straightened around. It is the best way to find happiness because the block removal is the best way to earn it.

Helen help us

Why do women put women down?

Dear Helen:

Why do so many women on TV talk shows or in magazine articles still take such pleasure in downing their own sex? It's as if they feel they're improving their own image by identifying with men.

Don't they realize that their jolly little remarks such as "I don't really like women," or "I don't like women in groups," or "I'd much rather be with men, I'm a man's woman," show not only contempt for their own sex but contempt for themselves?

As a woman who very much enjoys being with other women, singly or in groups (and I'm not strange -- I'm a happily married mother) I can only feel that females who find other females dull and uninteresting must be the same, unless there is man around to spark interest.

To me, this is the real meaning of liberation: A liberation from the idea that the male ego must be constantly bolstered, even at the expense of your own sex and yourself; from the idea that a woman is only half a person without a man and family, whereas a man is encouraged and expected to be whole, independent and productive, with or without women ... except, of course, physically. Liberation means to me that both parties are complete persons before and after marriage. Let's get away from this "who's going to hold the door open or buy dinner" bit, and back to the most important issue -- which is improving woman's image of herself -- L.B.

Publiskis mark 25th anniversary

Marking 25 years of togetherness, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Publiski of 51316 Willis Road, Belleville, observed their silver wedding anniversary at a mass of thanksgiving.

Father Raymond S. Skoney presided at the seven o'clock service at St. Anthony's Catholic Church during which the couple renewed their wedding vows. George Krzesinski, who had been best man at the wedding, and Mrs. Sophie McKee, a bridesmaid, were present for the happy occasion along with some 40 close friends and relatives.

A reception honoring the Publiskis followed at the P.N.A. Hall, Belleville. The couple's children, Thomas Publiski and his wife, Pam, Ronald, Kenneth, and Cynthia were hosts at the party which included a Polish-style dinner and wedding cake baked and decorated by Ilene Publiski.

Mrs. Publiski wore for the celebration a yellow gown with silver accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations pinned at the shoulder. Her daughter, Cynthia, donned a purple frock and corsage of white baby mums. Daughter-in-law Pam was also presented with a pink carnation corsage.

The men in the family were handsome in their tuxedos and white carnation boutonnieres.

Over 250 guests attended from Ohio, Temperance, Detroit, Royal Oak, Saline, Milan, Ypsilanti, Willis, Romulus, Wayne, Monroe, Ann Arbor and Belleville. The guest book was circulated by Cynthia Publiski and her cousin, Barbara Moers.

New area YWCA program has varied activities

With its announcement of winter activities, the YWCA of Western Wayne County sends a special invitation to local residents -- "make this your year for personal involvement."

Enroll at the YWCA, 1034 Monroe, Dearborn for classes beginning the week of Jan. 18.

There are swimming classes for tiny tots and moms, on through senior life saving. Older girls and women Tuesday evening and younger boys and girls Saturday afternoon, all follow the Red Cross progression method.

Tuesday evening, ladies may enjoy a swim and finish off the evening with an exercise class guaranteed to undo the damage that holiday indulgence may have done! If one's whole mental outlook needs an uplift, maybe yoga will do the trick. Adults, Tuesday night, and the young set, Thursday, weekly at 4 p.m. are finding that yoga has many virtues to commend it to the hectic pace of today's living.

Indoor golf will start later in the month for those who just can't wait for spring and if the lady of the house feels like a whole new self, is the answer to winter blues, enroll in "charm and beauty," an evening course that covers fully visual poise, exercise, beauty care, figure analysis, makeup, wardrobe and hair styling.

Monday nights are guitar nights, with classes for levels one through four. The instructor is a professional entertainer as well as a teacher of many years.

Ladies Morning Out offers a full selection of activities for those who want to break the stay-at-home cycle. Nursery provides group learning experience for the preschooler while mom enjoys herself. Tuesday morning one can choose from beginning bridge, knitting, sketching, pastels and painting, creative stitchery and decoupage II. Thursday Ladies Morning Out features intermediate and advanced bridge, Bishop Sewing II, decoupage I and macrame II. Thursday afternoon, Bishop Sewing I and macrame I, are offered.

Macrame is an ancient seaman's art of knotting that can be used to create belts, vests, wall hangings and other art forms that are very 1971. Creative stitchery stresses original design created by use of varied texture yarns in as many as 50 different stitches. Decoupage may have been developed by the ladies of court to pass the time but today it's a real status symbol with suburban ladies. Begin with a basket purse in the first class and progress to work on glass and mother of pearl. Class 2 completes a priceless lamp.

Bishop Sewing follows a special curriculum developed to make sewing simpler and more professional even for the experienced seamstress. Twenty hours of instructions at an extremely low cost are offered on a first come basis.

In midwinter, a six-week variety and trip series will start along with scattered one day workshops in a variety of hobby areas.

Adult and teen driving courses are available starting monthly.

For more information on classes or the wide range of other YWCA activities, available call today LO 1-4110, YWCA of Western Wayne County.

For and about Suburban Women

Reactivate clothes in family wardrobe

Making over old garments can be a satisfying challenge and a money-stretcher, according to Bernetta Kahabka, clothing specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University. She suggests the following steps for reactivating a garment.

Some changes can be made without taking the garment apart. These include lengthening, shortening and moving buttons. Remember, however, that some clothes can't be let out. Check for worn or raveled seams and darts that have been clipped to make the garment lay flat.

These areas can't be altered.

Use a "first things first" approach. One alteration may automatically take care of another. For example, fixing a poorly fitted neckline may pull a drooping shoulder into place. A misplaced waistline may be corrected through neck and shoulder alterations.

Alteras much as possible in the less conspicuous areas, such as the side seams. When you reach the limit there, you may have to turn to the styling areas or design such details as waistline darts and decorative seams to give the garment good appearance.

The first step in major restyling is to rip the garment apart carefully and clean and press all the pieces. Miss Kahabka advises.

Next, choose a pattern that will best fit the size, shape and number of pieces you have. It should be a simple, up-to-date style which doesn't require excessive piecing. It's a good idea to use similarly styled patterns for makeovers. For example, choose a pattern with raglan sleeves for making over an old garment which has raglan sleeves. Or, try making a wrap-around skirt from a coat, she suggests.

When piecing is necessary, do it where it won't show -- underarms, under lapels, inside pleats, under collars and under overblouses. Often, a pattern with a yoke can be pieced most easily.

If the wrong side of the material is less worn and faded, it should be used, says Miss Kahabka. Holes and worn spots can be covered with patch pockets or other details.

Buttonholes are tedious and time-consuming. Wherever possible, use snaps and hooks.

With these suggestions in mind, you can make a sturdy, useful, flattering garment -- if you're willing and if after considering time, energy, interest and skills you think it worthwhile.

from the Carroll Righter Institute

General tendencies: A bad day to take any chances or to do anything that might interfere with your future progress and advancement. Hold in check any comments you are apt to make that can lose you the goodwill of those in powerful position. Think of today as a Friday, the 13, even though it's not.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be sure not to spend too much today. It would be a good idea to put a few dollars in your wallet. You are apt to meet with unreliable individuals. Do nothing to ruin your reputation.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't try to renege on your responsibilities. Be sure to show devotion to family. Avoid making those snide remarks that are part of your nature. Think constructively.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Much care in motion of any kind must be exercised now or you could get into considerable trouble. Plan how to improve routine work. Make sure you get rid of as many debts as you can. Go over statements carefully.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) Listening carefully to what a prominent person has to say brings fine benefits later, although you may not right now, agree with this person. Improve status within your community. Cut down on emotionalism.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Lashing out at those around you only makes matters worse, so take it easy. Do whatever will improve your appearance. Use tact at social affair. A matter of importance should be handled quickly.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It is wise to complete what you have started although it may be a little difficult to do so. You have several problems to solve. Get into a quiet corner and figure out meticulously how to do so.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Although good friends may seem demanding, do not lose your temper. Think matters over and you find they have a right to do so. It is for your own good. Use tact in dealing with others instead of being so blunt.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you follow every law that pertains to you exclusively, you avoid much trouble. Don't lose favor of higher-ups. Why don't you pay that bill instead of planning to spend the money foolishly? Be smart.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have some excellent plans in mind, but this is not the right day to put them in operation. Anything others want you to do should be taken under advisement. Study the future trends carefully.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Any responsibilities you may have should be handled unequivocally and efficiently. Make friends of your creditors. Caution should be used in trying to please mate. Use your money wisely.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do more listening than talking with others today, since they are in a somewhat belligerent mood and could start unfortunate arguments. Not a good day to make new deals. A wait a better time.

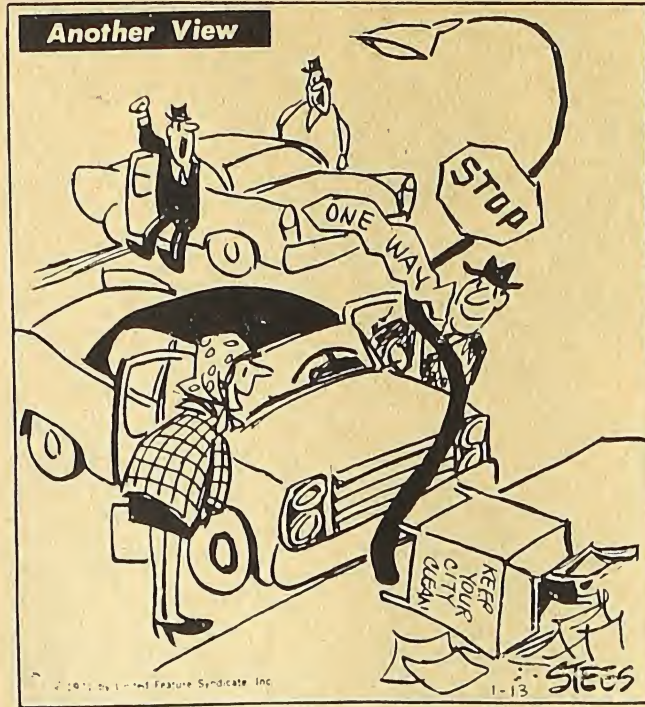

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Start work ahead of you without fussing and fuming and trying to get others to carry through with it. They would only meet it up. Act in a balanced way and avoid accidents.

If your child is born today he or she will be one of those very dramatic and forceful young people who insists on learning almost everything by experience. Teach early the love of books as well as how to use the honeyed word instead of the vinegary one, and there can then be much success in this chart, since there is much ability solving difficult problems. Supervise sports early.

Jaycee farmer honored

What makes an outstanding farmer?

The Michigan Jaycees and Central Soya recently co-sponsored a search for the top farmer of 1970, looking for a candidate who displayed progress in farming, stewardship of the soil and civic and community participation.

Ronald J. Kirsch of Harbor Beach was selected by judges as Michigan's Outstanding Young Farmer of 1970, sponsors announced yesterday.

Runners-up in the contest were Robert Campbell of Jeddo and LaVern Smith of Battle Creek.

This year's panel of judges included Donald D. Juchartz, current county agent, P.R. Biebesheimer, retired county agent, and John Leach, county assistant for Michigan State University's Wayne County cooperative extension service.

Chairman of the project for the Michigan Jaycees was James Thompson, member and past president of the Wayne Jaycees.

Most of the state nominees for the OYF award operated farms which had been in the family for years, judges said.

These three outstanding young farmers have many things in common, including sizeable hunks of optimism about the business of farming.

The desk will contain the names of all those who have been memorialized during the past years and with room for each person to be memorialized in the future, Pastor J. Charles Dibley announced.

The next meeting of the Junior Leaders of Wayne County will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Wayne County 4-H Fairgrounds on the third Monday instead of the second.

The following Romulus High School senior students took the scholastic aptitude test Saturday to try for the Ford Scholarship: Marie Diepenhorst, Kathy Hood, Daryl Butler, Kriss Mitchell and Chris. Canejo. The test was given at Ann Arbor Pioneer High School.

Mrs. Maurice DeLangis and son, Paul, of Torrence, Calif., and her daughter, Evelyn, of Pontiac were visitors last Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Glaab Sr. on Hannan Rd.

Plans are in process for a "Fish Fry" which the Men's Club will sponsor on Friday, Jan. 29, in the basement of the United Methodist Church, Olive St. Romulus.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ellis and daughter, Stacey, of Racine, Wisc. are home after spending an extended holiday vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ellis, on Van Petten St. The Glenn Ellis family, also visited other relatives in this area.

A Spring 4-H achievement day for all areas will be held March 20. There will be no live exhibits. Those planning to enter projects are to fill out the necessary blanks and return them by next Wednesday, according to William G. Younglove, Extension 4-H Youth Agent at the Wayne County office on Wayne Rd., Wayne.

MAXI GOLDEN

★ 1. PASSBOOK FORM

★ 2. LOWEST MINIMUM DEPOSIT!

★ 3. 5.75 → 5.92%

★ 4. FREE CHECKING

Our Maxi Golden Passbook earns you more money than anything like it in Detroit.

We at Bank of the Commonwealth asked ourselves if ours was still the number one savings plan in Detroit. Here's what we found out:

Lowest minimum deposit. Who else pays you the highest rate of interest possible for a deposit as low as $500? Most want deposits of $1,000... $5,000... even $10,000 before they'll pay you the highest legal interest rate. 5.75% interest that turns into 5.92%.

A lot of people talk about compounding your interest. Some do it quarterly. Some do it monthly. Some do it daily. We do it continuously. And that enables us to give you an effective return of 5.92% annually, the highest possible rate any bank can pay on a two-year savings passbook.

Free checking that saves you up to $30 a year. What bank in Detroit gives you a no-minimum-balance checking account free? Only Bank of the Commonwealth. Think about that! It's almost like making an extra $30 a year from your savings account.

And remember, Maxi Golden comes in convenient passbook form. That lets you add to your account in amounts as low as $50 anytime you wish.

Now, we ask you, isn't Maxi Golden better than your present savings plan? And isn't it time you started making more with Maxi Golden? Just stop by any office of Bank of the Commonwealth.

We're not the biggest... just the first.

That's why we call ourselves Bank One Bank of the Commonwealth
